Headaches and Their Treatment.

In treating a headache, there is one safe rule to follow:—Never use any medicine containing acetanilid or similar toxic derivatives without the advice of your physician. They may give temporary relief, but they almost never reach the cause of the trouble and are likely to weaken the heart. The most common form of headache, frequently called sick headache, arising from a disordered stomach, may be avoided by care in the choice of food. Shun pastry, candy and rich food, take time to eat, chew your food thoroughly and keep your bowels in good condition by using one-half to one teaspoonful of L. F. Atwood's Medicine after each meal. This old reliable remedy has been a perfect blessing to thousands for sixty years. Get a bottle today, and prove it for yourself. GREAT VOTING CONTEST

Elegant Obermeyer & Sons Piano and Other Valuable Prizes to be Awarded to the Successful Candidates.

THE CITIZEN AND BETHEL MERCHANTS GIVE PRIZES

Read the Announcement and Particulars on Eighth Page of this Issue, and get in the Game.

The Citizen this week inaugurates the greatest voting contest ever held in this section of the state, and one which we believe will arouse a great deal of interest.

This contest will extend over a period of about 60 days, and at the close of the contest some lady in Bethel or vicinity will be the proud possessor of a handsome $100 piano.

On page eighth of this issue will be found a full explanation of the contest, with the rules which will govern it, and a list of beautiful and useful auxiliary prizes which will be given by the progressive merchants of the village. There are a great number of prizes, besides the piano, any one of which will be well worth winning, and every contestant who gets out and makes any kind of a hustle will be sure of winning a handsome prize, even if she does not win the piano.

This contest is put on under the auspices of the Publisher's Music Co. of Chicago, who will have charge of the arrangements. This company makes a business of conducting these popular voting contests and at present has a number of them under way in this and other states.

Some popular lady will have a beautiful piano as the result of this contest, and a number of others will have beautiful prizes of various kinds.

Read the rules elsewhere in this issue, inspect the offerings of the merchants, and learn how you may secure votes for yourself or friend.

Use the 25-vote coupon in this issue and cast it for some one, as it may be the starter of a winner. Fill out the nominating blank and send it or hand

"I cannot but admit to the efficacy of Swift's Animal Fertilizers, and notwithstanding the dryest season for years, I harvested a bumper crop on one-half acre. I used a fair amount of Swift's Fertilizer and one-half ton of your Swift's Fertilizer—my potatoes were a good crop. The same a barrel from each acre on the field. I consider your Fertilizer the best I ever used."—A. Anderson, Lakewood, Mass.

"I used five tons of your Swift's Fertilizer on my corn and potatoes on 1/2 acre, and got a crop of 100 bushels of new corn, and naturally I am well pleased with the results."—G. K. Lawrence, Rutland, Maine.

FEEDING LAYING HENS.

Address Given by Prof. W. E. Schaeppa,
Farmers' Week, Orono, March 8.

Throughout their entire life these birds should receive a relatively narrow ration. This is owing to the comparatively rapid growth which a bird makes during its early life and later on these birds that lay throughout the year should receive a narrow ration in order that they be able to supply material for egg production. First of all the birds should be fed a wide variety of clean, wholesome foods. These can be easily divided into four groups—grain, green foods, meat, and grits. The first three the birds will supply for themselves during the summer when they are on range, but through the winter they must be supplied these in some way. At present the most popular way of feeding green food are in the form of cabbage, mangels, or sprouted oats—the birds being given one food each day. Cabbage is an excellent food and much relished by the birds. It can be cut into about pieces or shreds and can be fed with good results. The most food can be supplied in the form of meat scraps, green cuttings, or milk. The birds crave this food during the winter and if it is supplied they will respond with an increase in egg production. A variety of grains should be fed, both in the form of feeding grain and stock.

In feeding laying hens the quantity must be given at least one quart to every six birds in such a way that the birds will be kept active and healthy throughout the winter and to supply them with an abundance of wholesome foods. The system of feeding recommended by the Maine Experiment Station is as follows: One quart of feed to six birds.

They should (and in later) Early morning feed—cracked corn, 1000 & 1/2 feed—equal parts of wheat and oats. These grains are fed at the rate of 2 qts. to 100 birds.

Day feed—100 birds in laying house. Wheat bran, 500 lbs.; corn meal, 500 lbs.; dried corn, 500 lbs.; meat scraps, 500 lbs.

Second month in laying house. Wheat bran, 500 lbs.; corn meal, 500 lbs.; dried corn, 500 lbs.; meat scraps, 500 lbs.

Third month in laying house. The birds have the same composition as that of the second month with the addition of 10 lbs. of ground meal.

Fourth month. The birds in the house as that of the second month.

Fifth month. The birds in the house as for the third month.

From this time on 50 lbs. of ground meal was added to the feed, as given for the second month, every alternate month. This day meal is kept before the birds all the time to give support to the other feed given.

Don't be surprised if you have an outbreak of abdominal distention during the above period. This is due to the fact that the birds are not used to the ground meal. It is best to start with a small quantity and increase it gradually. It is best to start with a small quantity and increase it gradually. It is best to start with a small quantity and increase it gradually.

COMMUNICATION.

Locke's Mills, Maine.
Editor Oxford County Citizen:

I noticed in the Citizen a few weeks ago that Prof. Chapman was quoted as comparing our Bethel farmers unfavorably with the farmers in Port Fairfield, Anson County. The Professor seems to think we ought to work harder and make our days longer.

Without doubt the Prof.'s many farmer friends in Bethel know him too well to take anything he says about them too seriously.

Why should the farmer, who is already making from two to six hours more per day than most men in other occupations, be asked to make longer days, while laborers in other trades are constantly cutting down their number of hours per day? Conditions are quite different in Bethel than they are in Port Fairfield. In the ten mile radius where the Prof. says $2,000,000 have been distributed for potatoes this year there are more than ten times the number of acres available for potato cultivation than there are in a ten mile radius of Bethel and that fact is also better adapted to growing large crops of potatoes of good quality.

The Anson County farmer is a specialist. Little stock is kept. Some grain is grown, but the main thing is the potato. Practically all his eggs are in one basket. That works out all right this year when potatoes are high, but how about the two years just passed when many have had to mortgage their farms to pay fertilizer bills and many who were already mortgaged have been compelled to step down and out. The results of the potatoes in such years will offset the success of the statement.

In Bethel, farming is more diversified. Not many potatoes are grown to the acre, but it is a mistake to think that a man is lazy simply because you do not meet him on the road with a load of potatoes every time you are out sporting with your automobile. Professor. He may be at home checking the pigs out of the garden, or stripping the old barrels over. In fact there are more than a farmer's seven things that he has to do, and working real hard for, and still he where potatoes can't be seen therefore he must be lazy.

We will admit that the Anson County farmer is a specialist, that he is a better business man, that he can probably crop after him in many ways, but we won't admit that he works any harder or any more hours in a year than we do—although he makes his labor bring more return.

Now, Bethel farmers, let a large out crop on the Professor. He has asked another good farm to let all ready for potatoes, and we must look to him to give us some object lesson in not a good idea to let Anson County farmers and if you happen to be passing some of his farms this spring along about 5:30 A. M., or earlier go in and watch him stir up the spade to feed the planting potatoes with, if he hasn't already done it to the field and come around his day's work.

Now, I don't claim to be much of a farmer, but I am not much good at nothing.

Bring $5 Any Day and Join the Cressey & Allen Piano Club

When you come into Portland, be sure and come in and join the Cressey & Allen Piano Club.

Come in, anyway, and look at the piano---and hear it. If you think well enough of it---$5 dollars is all it takes to join the club.

The remainder of the club price ($272.50) is then payable at the rate of 1 dollar and 25 cents a week.

You may have the piano delivered at once, or later---just as you wish.

The weekly payments of 1 dollar and 25 cents do not necessarily begin until the piano is delivered, though you may, if you wish, keep up your weekly payments until you have your piano delivered if you do not want your piano until later.

The important protective feature of the club becomes operative when you begin your weekly payments. From that time on, should you die, the remaining unpaid payments will be cancelled forthwith and a receipt in full for the instrument will be turned over to your family.

There are so many reasons why you should join the Cressey & Allen Piano Club if you are thinking of buying a piano, that they cannot all be mentioned in one advertisement.

The thing to do is to investigate them. Go over them one by one with one of our salesmen who can explain them point by point to you.

A piano is something you do not buy every day---you owe it to yourself to look well into what you are getting before you do buy.

For the convenience of people who cannot come in during the day the store will be open Wed. and Sat. evenings until 9 o'clock.

LOCAL HISTORY.

In consequence of the visit of the British Governor Andrew to the Castle "castle" and drove the Baron, for a while, into exile, and meddled with his private affairs, thus exciting the Indians and French to acts of retaliation through the agency of the torch and sword.

The tales of Castles when told are not only captivating but magical whether reference is made to the person or the environment that perpetuates his name; but the place has not been known always by its present name. The Penobscot river has had several names. The Old Town Indians, it is said, are the remnant and of the tribe that originally inhabited the locality, a description of whom was written in the year of 1818 and has been handed down to us; "Magaduc," the name by which the place was known at the time of the war of the Revolution is a contraction of the Indian name. The arm of the sea, forming a bay and safe harbor on the easterly side of the peninsula, called Magaduc river, perpetuates one of the ancient names. Hence the fact that Baron Charles lived there, whose wife was the handsome daughter of the chief of the early Indian occupants of the spot, the descent of the Castle view to explain it while the war of the Revolution was on, that the great British fortification remains intact, the name they from the Penobscot to the Magaduc river by the British as a punishment to the war from a military aspect, the place contains many other attractions. It was once the chief town of the county, contained the court house, the court and the county records now kept at Ellsworth. There may be seen there also the school building of the Eastern branch of our Normal School system, scores of costly private residences and during the summer and early fall months sail and steam launches and yachts of all sizes and styles in flocks in large numbers.

The attempt to dislodge the British at Castles that was equally failed, several which were destroyed, and will still remain records to tell, a tale of suffering, ought not to be considered a part of our Revolutionary war history for it was a project gotten up at Boston, outside of military circles, an affair like that of Ben Thompson's to capture Capt. Henry Maxwell, whose valor made a footnote of disaster.

Castles is located upon the coast, but considerably inland, about midway between Portland and Bangor. It is somewhat isolated it can be truly said, in fact, it is considerably so. It is not reached direct by railroad; depends on steamboats, ferry boats and the stage coach. Its waters are somewhat uncertain as like the tangle of our southern lands, but as Florida is to water is the tourist as to Castles in the summer; to be appreciated needs to be visited.

The year of 1818 is given as the date when Baron Charles arrived from Canada at the mouth of the Penobscot river, and for a period of ten years lived in domestic tranquillity when he had a little trouble with a couple of the British commandants, even after which he was ordered to quit the fort, but he took no notice of the order. That year, which was 1828, the charter rights were taken from the New England people, and Sir Edward Andrew was sent here and proclaimed Governor who soon proved himself a tyrant. One of the first acts was to strip the fort, commanded by the Baron, in casting his sentence, who led and led Andre and his companions entered the Baron's house, took the arms, powder, and such other articles they chose to take away. This aroused the jealousy of the Baron against the British and he organized and led the life of the British and French forces that he urged and then formed first Loyal to the north of May, 1800, that stood at the foot of India street in Portland, not having one of the parties to re-act the story of the capture.

A little of this first Loyal affair has already been presented in the Citizen and the time of the attack has never been related publicly and consistently only in a general way.

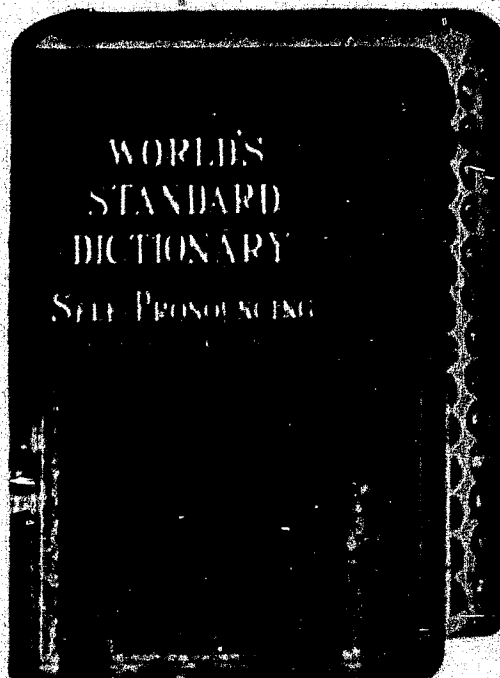

It is proposed to tell in brief in the next issue of the Citizen the story of the British, Maine and Cumberland county attempt to dislodge the British who, during the war of the Revolution, commanded the great north work at Castles and the contemporary by the British while the war of 1818 was on.

THE OXFORD COUNTY CITIZEN

There is a Reason

Why the Silent

is today being imitated by so many manufacturers. For twelve years the Elmore Co. have been making this motor, without valves, and the many complications that go with them. Today we find many of the oldest and most successful makers of cars, in this and foreign countries, bowing to the inevitable, and for the first time using a "valveless" motor. But remember we still lead, as many of the basic principles, necessary to produce the nearest perfect, "valveless" motor, have long been our exclusive ideas, protected by patents.

Our 1912 motors consist of a four passenger car at $1,950.00. Five passenger at $1,250, and larger five passenger, $1,650.00, which have no equal at hill climbing.

It is never necessary to start on anything but high speed, as the extra impulses which we have, allow us to stop and start without changing gears. A motor with but fifteen wearing parts, doing the same work, more silently, and with less trouble and expense, is, in a "nut shell" what we are offering to you in place of the old type, with valves and the hundred and fifty parts that go with them.

"Silent as the space of time," reliable as the "Rock of Ages."

Drop me a card and I will mail you a catalogue or give you a demonstration of the 1912 "Elmore."

THE TRUE TEST
Tried in Bethel, It Has Stood the Test.

The hardest test is the test of time, and Dean's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Bethel. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:

J. C. Cates, Mill Hill, Bethel, Me. says: "About six months ago my back began to pain me and I had a dull ache in my loins. I did not pay much attention to the trouble until the kidney secretions became unusual and I then knew that my kidneys were deranged. I immediately procured a box of Dean's Kidney Pills at Messerman's Drug Store and after their use, the pain in my back disappeared and my kidneys became normal." (Statement given July 23, 1904.)

RECOMMENDATION. When Mr. Cates was interviewed on July 23, 1911, he said: "Every word of the statement I gave for publication three years ago, recommending Dean's Kidney Pills still holds good. I have had no return attack of kidney trouble."
